V Level Education and Early Years

V Level Education and Early Years is a practical and engaging qualification for students interested in how people learn and develop. The course explores the theories, principles and practices that underpin effective education, from early years through to adult learning.

Students will study key areas including teaching and learning, communication, assessment, inclusion, health and safety, reflective practice and educational legislation. Learning is delivered through discussion, research, practical activities, case studies and work-related scenarios that reflect a range of educational settings.

The qualification develops valuable transferable skills such as communication, planning, decision-making, problem-solving and evaluation. Students learn how to plan learning sessions, analyse assessment information, support learner progress and work effectively with parents, carers and other professionals.

This qualification provides a direct pathway into the education profession. Students can progress into school-based apprenticeships, such as Teaching Assistant or Learning Mentor roles, gaining valuable experience while continuing their professional development. Alternatively, the course provides a strong foundation for higher education, enabling students to pursue degrees in Education Studies, Primary Education, Early Childhood Studies and related fields as a route into teaching and other educational careers.
